

Know your Certification

The Certification Board of Infection Control and Epidemiology, Inc. (CBIC®) administers the exam certifying individuals as Certified in Infection Control (CIC®). The purpose of the certification process is to protect the public by providing standardized measurement of current basic knowledge needed for persons practicing infection control; encouraging individual growth and study, thereby promoting professionalism among infection prevention and control professionals; and formally recognizing infection prevention and control professionals who fulfill the requirements for certification. Individuals who earn their CIC® credential join over 5,000 practitioners worldwide who are Certified in Infection Control. The National Commission for Certifying Agencies (NCCA) accredits CBIC's certification program, which signifies that CBIC has met the highest national voluntary standards for private certification. CBIC periodically conducts job analyses to assure that certification measures current practices and knowledge required for infection prevention and control and applied epidemiology.

The Certification Board of Infection Control and Epidemiology, Inc. (CBIC) is a voluntary autonomous multidisciplinary board that provides direction for and administers the certification process for professionals in infection prevention and control and applied epidemiology. CBIC is independent and separate from any other infection control –related organization or association. For more information about CBIC, visit www.cbic.org.

Who can use the CIC® designation

Persons who may use the CIC® designation are those who have successfully passed the proctored computer-based certification (CBT) exam and have maintained current certification, Self-Achievement Recertification Examination (SARE).

How to use the CIC® designation

CIC® is a federally registered trademark and property of the Certification Board of Infection Control and Epidemiology, Inc. The CIC® credential may be used on resumes, business cards, letterhead, and other professional communications.

Inappropriate use of the CIC® designation

The CIC® credential may not be used for product or other endorsements. CICs must recertify every 5 years, or they will lose their CIC® credential. Those individuals who do not recertify within the prescribed time limit may no longer use the CIC® designation. No other person or persons are permitted to use the CIC® designation including, but not limited to, persons who fail to pass either the CBT or SARE.
