

Tiffany Wiksten,
DNP, RN, CIC
2025 CBIC President

CBIC in Phoenix:
We Hope to See You There!

The Certification Board of Infection Control and Epidemiology (CBIC) is here to support you throughout your certification journey. With a wide range of certification options tailored to every career stage, along with opportunities for professional growth and leadership, CBIC is committed to helping you succeed. Together, we can elevate the standards of infection prevention and control.

Are you ready to expand your influence in the field? Consider joining the CBIC Board of Directors or participating in one of our test committees. These roles offer an incredible chance to shape the future of certification, build valuable connections with passionate professionals, and enhance your career while advancing the field of infection prevention and control.

If you're attending the APIC Annual Conference in Phoenix, we invite you to visit the CBIC booth. There, you can explore insights from the inaugural cohort of candidates for the Advanced Leadership Certification in Infection Prevention & Control (AL-CIP). We'll share updates on pass rates, emerging trends, and upcoming developments for this exciting credential. If you've been contemplating pursuing this certification, the conference is ideal for asking questions and gaining firsthand knowledge about the process. The second application cycle for the AL-CIP opens on July 10, 2025, and runs until August 15, 2025—don't miss this opportunity to highlight your expertise and leadership in infection prevention.

CBIC is committed to strengthening connections within the infection prevention community. Whether you're actively involved with your local APIC or IPAC Canada chapter or contributing to infection prevention efforts at your workplace, we want to collaborate with you. If you'd like to arrange a virtual presentation, please email our executive director at jdangles@cbic.org. Let's connect and work together to make a lasting impact!

Tiffany Wiksten, DNP, RN, CIC
2025 CBIC President

“

Are you ready to expand your influence in the field? Consider joining the CBIC Board of Directors or participating in one of our test committees.

